Use Of Tax Boost Funds Detailed By School Board

On March 29, voters in the Carmel Unified School District will be asked to increase the maximum tax rate to $2.85 per $100 assessed property valuation for the next five years. The present total tax rate for the district is $2.53, which includes the existing 50-cent override.

Superintendent Medill Bair has presented the following summary of the board of education's decisions relating to the use of override funds, if approved.

Approximately half of the funds (the revenue of thirty-five cents of the total of seventy cents requested) will be used to continue (maintain) the present program. The funds raised by this thirty-five cents will be more than sufficient during the first three years and will be less than enough during the last two years. The excess raised during the first three years will be used to meet the deficit during the last two years.

BUDGET DEFICIT WITHOUT OVERRIDE

1966-1967	$100,557
1967-1968	186,491
1968-1969	284,034
1969-1970	394,337
1970-1971	518,739

If added revenues are received from a "new" source, the tax will be reduced accordingly.

If override funds do not become available, it will be necessary for the Board to make drastic cuts next year. Primarily because of a decrease in P.L. 874 revenues, the estimated deficit of $100,557 will be closer to $127,814.

It is planned to use the other thirty-five cents in the following manner, not necessarily in order of priority. It is not expected that any of the problems will be completely acted upon in a single year. For example, it will take at least two to five years to bring the student-teacher ratio and class size up to the CUSD standards. To keep the salary guide competitive will require constant revision and incentive schemes are planned for the purpose of rewarding outstanding teachers. Specific maintenance problems will vary from year to year although a continuing effort will be made to keep our buildings and grounds in order so we may spend significantly lesser funds on them in the future.

1. The CUSD Board of Education will attempt to implement its "Student Teacher Ratio-Class Size" policy at both the secondary and elementary levels. Data relating to this problem follows:

A. SECONDARY POLICY

English—4 classes daily, approximately 100-120 students.

Other Academic Subjects — 5 classes daily, approximately 125-150 students.

Practical Arts — 6 classes daily, approximately 120-150 students.

Physical Education — 5 classes daily, approximately 200-250; 6 classes daily, for intramurals, approximately 240-300 students.

To meet these secondary school policies would require the following:

At the Carmel High School, two teachers next year. Because students have not determined their subject needs for next year the exact specializations of the new teachers cannot be determined at this time.

At the Carmel Middle School, two English teachers, one teacher each in mathematics, foreign language, science, history, music, arts and crafts; two-thirds physical education teacher (part-time).

At the Tularcitos School (Grades 5 and 6 only), one teacher next year. Because the schedule for next year is not developed the subject area cannot be determined at this time.

Full implementation of this policy will require from two to five years. It will not be carried out in haste for securing outstanding teachers in this day of increasing shortage is a slow process.

B. ELEMENTARY POLICY

Teachers — 1 per 24 students (school average).

Principal — 1 per school.

Librarian — 1 per 400 pupil school.

Music-vocal — 1 per 400 pupils.

Music-instrumental — 1 per 800 pupils.

Art — 1 per 400 pupils.

Physical Education — 1 per 800 pupils.

Guidance — 1 per 800 pupils.

Psychologist — 1 per 1200 pupils.

To implement these elementary school policies would require two new teachers at River School and the equivalent of a half-time teacher at Tularcitos; a principal at Woods School; two librarians to serve Woods, Carmelo and River Schools; for the district as a whole, two, plus, music and physical education teachers, two guidance counselors and one psychologist.

Comparisons of salary schedules, below, represent neighboring districts and those which employed teachers the CUSD tried to employ. The board will attempt to make its salary guides competitive with these districts in which one has a lower minimum but all have a higher maximum.

Red Cross Goal, Budget Explained

With the beginning, Tuesday, of the Carmel Red Cross Golden Anniversary fund and membership drive for 1966, volunteer chairman Frederick K. Duhring of the Carmel chapter has released the following figures on the annual budget. The announced goal for the local chapter is $28,796, of which $7,806 goes to the national organization.

"The big items in our budget," explained Duhring, "are for the blood program, service to military veterans, and community service, which total $10,490. The Red Cross youth program takes $600, first aid and water safety, $250. Nursing service and disaster preparedness require a budget of $50 each. Other items are public information, for which $1,250 is set aside; membership enrollment and fund raising, $800. General management and operating facilities are budgeted at $3,500 and $4,000 respectively.

The item listed as "operating facilities," it is further explained, covers office supplies, postage, telephone, and building maintenance including utilities, insurance, automobile equipment, and salary of custodian.

Mr. Duhring stated that assistance to the victims of unprecedented natural disasters throughout the country have depleted the national disaster fund, while the expanded military establishment has necessitated great expansion of Red Cross services in military installations both at home and overseas.

"We feel that $7,806 to the national organization is no more than our fair share to help support the nationwide and world wide activities of the American Red Cross," said the chairman.

Park Commission Urges State Action On Redwood Forest

The California State Park Commission, meeting Friday in Monterey, resolved to request the State of California to negotiate immediately for purchase of the Simpson Lumber Company forest through trade and funds from the Save-the-Redwoods League. The forest, which has been held for some time pending trade for redwoods outside the area, represents a slice in the proposed Redwood National Park to be comprised of the Jedediah Smith and Del Norte Coast Redwood State parks and the entire Mill Creek Watershed. If not acquired soon, the Simpson holdings may be sold to private lumber interests. Federal action may not be taken for two to three years. In addition, certain gifts to the Save-the-Redwoods League, whose funds for this acquisition now total $700,000, may be withdrawn if the purchase is not made.

Override Tax Failure Means Drastic Cuts In CUSD School Program

Taxpayers, for and against the 70-cent tax override requested by the Carmel Unified School District, rightly ask what adjustment can be made in the school budget and what accommodation must be made if the proposed increase is not approved by the voters.

Herewith is a summary by Superintendent Medill Bair of the cuts which the board of education has discussed in relation to the proposed 1966-67 budget (based on the present tax rate).

This budget barely maintains our present program and does not improve it in any way. No additional certificated or classified personnel will be employed. It does not improve our salary guide so we will continue to drop behind in the competition for better teachers.

However, even with this budget the expenditures exceed the income by $130,000. Thus additional drastic cuts are required. It is believed that those selected and listed under expenditures will do the least harm to the students of the CUSD.

Revenues

The revenue picture is reasonably accurate as of this date except for the estimated funds to be received through Public Law 874. This figure may be in error either way by $32,000. President Johnson has recommended that all "B" children, that is youngsters who do not live on military bases, not be considered, in which case the CUSD will lose an additional $32,000.

Expenditures

1. Athletics: Eliminate completely the interscholastic athletic program for next year. Cost factors include cuts of $11,000 for coaches, $4,000 for equipment and $2,500 for transportation. There may be other minor cuts possible. The total cut would be $17,500.

2. Inservice education area: Eliminate completely the English workshop. Cost factors include teachers at $4,500, clerical assistance at $300 and a consultant at $1,500. The total cut would be $6,300.

3. Transportation: Do not purchase the additional bus required for eastern area of district at a cost of $9,000. (Note that there is some evidence that the transportation account may be too low depending upon how the State Supreme Court rules on our present court suit). The total cut would be $9,000.

4. Operation: Cut the $3,000 in the custodial account used for employing replacement help when custodians are on vacation. The total cut would be $3,000.

5. Maintenance: Eliminate $10,000 in maintenance at the High School relating primarily to the replacement of various heating and water pipes. The total cut would be $10,000.

6. Palo Colorado School: Close Palo Colorado School. This will mean a net saving of perhaps a thousand dollars in operation for

Talcott Opposed As Filing Opens

Incumbent Congressman Burt L. Talcott of Salinas will face at least one rival for the Republican nomination in the California 12th District. He is Fred S. Rodkey of Santa Cruz, a retired professor of the University of Illinois, who took out nomination papers in Santa Cruz this week.

Democrat Richard G. Miller of Pacific Grove, also this week, took out nomination papers for the 12th District. A candidate for Congress two years ago, Mr. Miller has no challengers to date for his party's nomination.

As the filing period for county offices opened Monday, most incumbents secured nomination papers for re-election. Unopposed, as of this morning, are District Attorney Bertam Young, Coroner Christopher Hill Jr., Treasurer-Tax Collector Orville N. Molman, Sheriff Jack Davenport, Clerk Emmet T. McMenamin, Superintendent of Schools Edwin Coffin, Auditor-Controller Stanley E. Davis, Assessor Donald E. Stewart, and Pacific Grove Constable Ernest R. McAnaney.

Since Monday, Ray E. Rianda has secured papers for nomination in the 3rd Supervisorial District to challenge incumbent Harold G. Henry of King City. Also since Monday, incumbent Supervisor Arthur Atteridge of Salinas has filed for re-election.

Motel Association Votes Name Change

The Carmel Motel Association shall henceforth be known as the Carmel-by-the-Sea Innkeepers Association, members of the organization decided at the first meeting of their fiscal year on Monday. New president Ashton Stanley of Colonial Terrace conducted the meeting which also saw new by-laws adopted by the group.

The reason given for the name change was that the title should be broadened to feature more than just motels, since membership includes area hotels and inns.

Appointed to head committees were Ken Brown of The Village Inn, legislative; Tony Vasconcellos of the Horizon Inn, membership, and Hank Fonseca of the Jade Tree and Dolphin Inn, chairman of the new business promotion committee.

City Population Decreases By 459

Has Perry Newberry's ghost been stalking the village with his proposal of long, long ago to build a wall around Carmel to keep people out? Preliminary census results show that the city's population has decreased by 459 since 1960 to 4,121, while county residents now number 224,276, an increase of 25,925. With the exception of a small resident loss in Pacific Grove, all Peninsula cities have grown, according to figures released by the special census office.

Does anybody know who the cute little red and green man is who greets us so cheerily from the vacant store window at Carmel Rancho? This morning I saw my daughter smiling and waving back at him, so I figured it was time I learned something about him.

One of our local radio announcers sometimes gets so enthusiastic about the music he plays for us that his words come out all wrong. The other day he announced "The roar of the grease paint and the smell of the crowd."

Carmel Rancho is just full of interesting stuff. In the parking lot behind Safeway I witnessed a delightful Gaston and Alphonse minuet performed by two huge delivery trucks.

Coming from opposite directions they met at the loading platform in an almost-head-on collision. Then Laura Scudder bowed apologetically and backed up. So naturally, Granny Goose had to shake her head and say No, no, after you, and she backed up. There followed a moment of inactivity while each waited for the other to move. When it was obvious that neither one was going to, they both did. Stopping just in time to leap out and bow each other into the warehouse.

It's Red Cross time again. At the meeting of the drive's officers last week we were talking to Malcolm Steel. You know, that man is really amazing. In addition to being a Carmel residential area captain for Red Cross, he is a volunteer for "Heart," for "Cancer"; he did 48 blocks for Community Chest last year all by himself and he works seven days a week on his own Humble Oil petition.

A regular man of Steel, you might say, huh?

I certainly never thought the Monterey Peninsula and the city of Oakland had anything in common. But I now find that there is, indeed, a similarity, miniscule though it be. The rosewood square grand piano in their museum is the exact twin of the one in our Custom House.

At the Middle School parents' committee meetings, members present their own suggestions and complaints and hear those given them by other parents. One of the things so many students beef about to their mothers is that they're continually being bawled out for walking through the shrubbery instead of using the paths and yet the janitors and even some of the teachers do it all the time.

Mrs. Lazlo Toldi told of an interesting experiment in that regard in which her architect husband took part. A school was built and the grounds were left unlandscaped for a year. During that time the pupils, teachers and janitors walked freely wherever they wished, creating paths of their own. (Like snails?) Then summertime came and they all went away. These natural paths were paved, beautiful gardens were planted betwixt and between and everybody's gone in peace ever since.

Fran Hoffman, who generously took on the job of recording secretary, couldn't help smiling at the second meeting when, in reading the minutes, she came to this grumble. "It was suggested that the faculty should stop the girls from deliberately running their nylons."

Last year this day was Ash Wednesday. It was also the day The Great Society got going. (The huge Appalachia bill was passed March 3, 1965). But this year it doesn't seem to be doing much. Just sorta sittin' here bein.' As a day, that is. But as a week starter, boy, is it a doer!

March 3 is the beginning of Pickle Week, Fish'n Seafood Week, Raisins for Lent Week, National Peanut Week and Children, Save Your Vision Week.

Boyer And Hampton In Splendid Recital

By Lansdale Podbereski

The Monterey Peninsula warmly welcomed home Gilbert Boyer, pianist, teacher, conductor and founder of the Carmel Chamber Music Society, in a sonata recital with Bonnie Hampton, cellist, Sunday at Monterey Peninsula College.

The Chamber Music Society, inactive for several years while Mr. Boyer was touring Latin America and Europe, presented this concert as a preview of its 1966-67 season. A large audience, including a quantity of local musicians and music patrons, proved this group has both old and new friends. In the past, it has given many of our instrumentalists, singers and composers a hearing. In order to maintain a creatively active musical life on the Peninsula, such a group is more important in many ways than better-known professionals who come here on tour. Lets wish the Chamber Music Society artistic success and public support.

Bonnie Hampton, well-known in San Francicso (and a pupil of Casals), opened the program with the Bach "Suite No. 2 in D Minor" for unaccompanied cello. From her first notes, delivered with ease, largeness of tone and fine vibrato, one realized that here was an accomplished artist. The seven-movement suite was played with admirable contrast and shading, and romantic approach to Bach. Thus, it never became dull, which easily happens with a cellist of lesser caliber.

The next composition, Beethoven's "Sonata, Op. 69" for violoncello and piano, was, in all respects, the highlight of the evening. Both artists not only played expertly, but brought out the drama, humor and mature philosophic content of the composer, so that the performance became an intense emotional experience. This inner communication between players and audience sometimes seems like a lost art. Our receptivity is deadened by endless listening to dehumanized, accoustically perfect recordings — to overly-technical performances of machine-like coldness. Boyer's and Hampton's performance was notable in that it revived and contained human warmth, the true meaning and importance of music.

Gilbert Boyer displayed a sparkling virtuosity and singing tone, all the more remarkable when one realizes that he has for several years been largely involved with non-musical work. A fine sense of balance and gradation of dynamics was maintained between the two instruments, a difficult feat for any duo between piano and a stringed instrument. The Scherzo (Allegro Molto) was especially delightful, with its tricky off-beat rhythm. Here the timing of both players was perfection.

After intermission, came Bloch's "Meditation Hebraique," an impassioned and idiomatically-written piece for cello (the piano, except for one dramatic interpolation, has little to do), full of rhapsodic, typically Jewish intervals. A difficult instrument for most women, the cello in Miss Hampton's hands is capable of considerable virtuosity and power, although perhaps lacking the immense sonority of Casals or the flamboyance of Piatigorsky.

The program ended with "Sonata, Op. 38" for violoncello and piano by Brahms. The clarity of form and inner coherence of the Beethoven is missing from this composition. The cello seemed too monotonously fortissimo during the first two movements, the piano almost secondary. The artists achieved better unity and cooperation in the final movement in which the piano writing became more brilliant. Boyer handled magnificently the intricately-voiced orchestral style of this Allegro, so typical of Brahms.

We shall look forward to hearing a great deal more in the near future from these distinguished artists.

Commission Reaffirms Policy On Sunset Future

The Sunset Commission reaffirmed its policies concerning Sunset Center by unanimous approval, at its meeting Monday night, of an interim progress report presented by commissioner James Gilman.

"The commission has agreed that it must remain open to all reasonable proposals and recommendations for the future development of Sunset," one section of the report begins. "However, the commission is also aware of the undesirability of suspending future planning in the hope that some group or organization will relieve the commission of its responsibilities. Therefore, the Sunset Commission continues to plan for the orderly improvement and development of the existing facilities and means for putting them to their best use."

Stating that the commission has been approached by one non-profit organization (Arts, Inc.) with a tentative proposal for future development, the report continues "In the event an acceptable proposal is submitted to the commission for the development and operation of Sunset Center by a non-profit organization, it is the present feeling of the commission that the final decision to enter into a long-term lease with such an organization should be determined by a vote of the citizens, following appropriate public forums."

In the matter of progress Dr. Gilman's statement notes that since its formation in May, 1965, the commission has assumed the responsibility for the center's maintenance, operation, use and future development; also developed policies on use which have been approved by the city council. Portions of the buildings are now in full-time use and the auditorium receiving regular use.

Referring to a meeting of the Carmel Citizens Committee in January, Dr. Gilman said there was "concern by a considerable number of citizens over Sunset being given away in the middle of of the night." Adoption of the report, the commission agreed, would "set the record straight."

The commission continued discussion of recommendations made by commissioner Frank M. Falge in his report of January 13, with particular attention directed to the question of a feasibility study. Following several suggestions about the scope, direction, cost and financing of such a study, chairman Peter Dyer requested commissioner Jean van Loben Sels to inquire about the possibility of a feasibility study by the Stanford Research Institute, as proposed by her, as well as by the State Arts Commission.

No one had an answer to a question by another commissioner, Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN ret), who asked "What do we do if a feasibility study says 'No'?"

In other business, the commission approved a resolution, based on one passed by the county board of supervisors, requiring proof of authority to represent organizations; and granted the Carmel Arts Commission permission for joint-use of room 10 at Sunset, with certain limitation.

Two requests for co-sponsorship, or free use, of Sunset Center auditorium were denied. The Junior League of the Monterey Peninsula will be charged $50, the minimum cost to the city, for presentation of a children's show for which no admission is solicited.

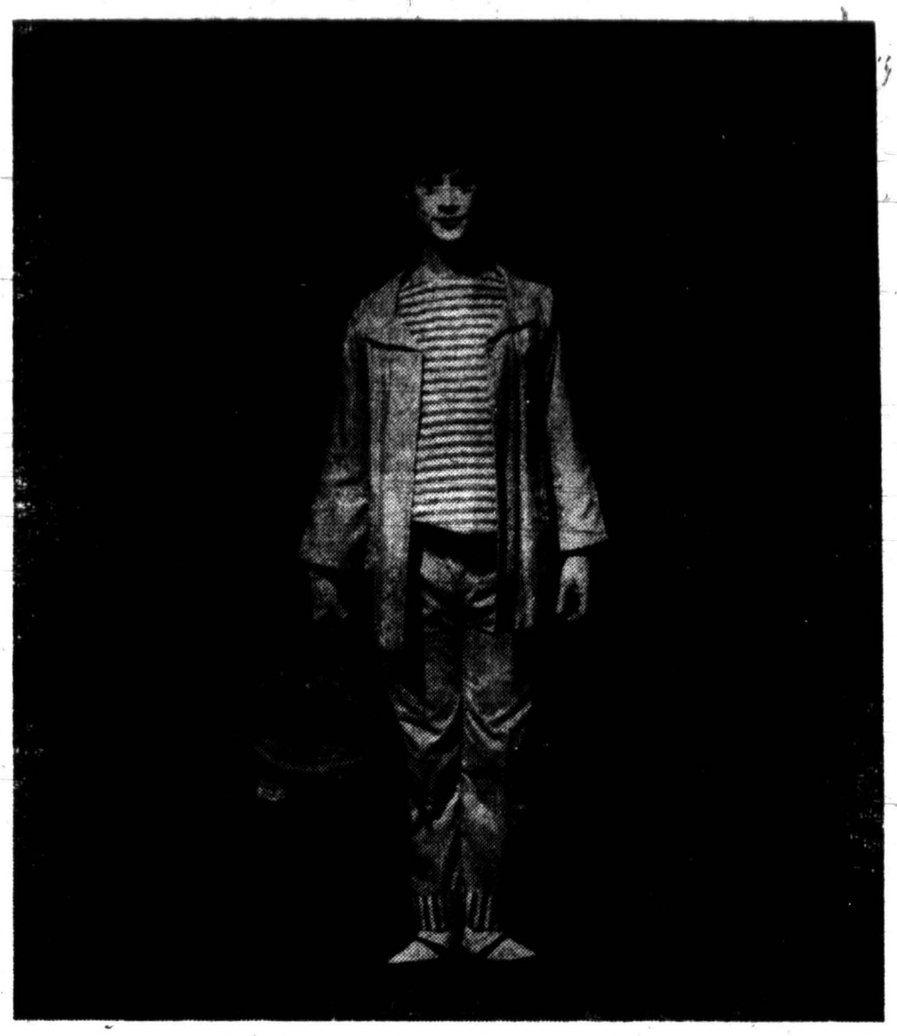
The Moral Re-Armament group will be charged $100 per performance of their show, "Sing Out '66." The reduced fee is based on admission charged by a non-profit organization. With commissioner Ted Fehring dissenting, the members agreed that there was no sound basis for granting free use to MRA after denying the Junior League's request.

Heard on the matter of MRA's request was Councilman Gunnar Norberg, who spoke from the floor and stated he had just done considerable research in the Carmel library on the history of the group. Mr. Norberg remarked that it is "not specifically patriotic." Among the original aims of its founder, Lutheran minister Frank Buchman, was Christian evangelism. The councilman referred to "The Mystery of Moral Re-Armament—A Study of Frank Buchman and His Movement," a book by Tom Driberg published by Alfred A. Knopf last year, and remarked that he was puzzled by the Carmel Mayor's involvement in "welcoming" MRA here for "Sing Out '66." In conclusion, Mr. Norberg said that since MRA was charging $2.50 for adults at the show in Sunset, the organization should pay the minimum established for use of the auditorium.

MPVS MEETS TOMORROW

Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services will meet tomorrow at the U.S.O. in Monterey at 10:30 a.m. New liaison officers are Mrs. Arthur Dresser, Family Service Agency; Mrs. F. H. Utley, Mental Health Association; Mrs. Thomas A. Roper, International Students; and Mrs. C. W. Fisher, Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula.

Mrs. A. F. Adams, Mrs Walter Jennings and Mrs Russell C. White are new March members.



"The Wonderment of Gleep" is apparent in the face of author-designer-actor Gale Peterson, artistic director at White Oaks Theatre where the delightful children's show is presented Sundays at 2:30 p.m. Shirley Eoff directs the White Oaks Fantasy Players in the current production which runs through March 20 at the Valley theatre.

In addition to Mr. Peterson as the two-sided character of Gleep, the cast includes Linda Boblitt, Ron Mitchell, Rick Morese, Mary Pattie, Dale Morse and Paul Wagner.

Lyceum Schedules Art Workshops

The Monterey Peninsula Lyceum has scheduled three art workshops for this spring. The courses will be offered to students who will be selected by their schools for their ability in art.

Mrs. Claudine Van Vleet will instruct second grade students in various media, including ink, charcoal and collage, with emphasis on line, color and form. The sessions are scheduled to begin on Saturday, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the cafeteria at Sunset Center. The local chapter of the American Federation of Arts is assisting in the program and has made available the room.

Mr. Si Ostermeier will teach drawing and sketching to fifth and sixth graders starting April 16, from 1 to 3 p.m.

Students in grades nine to 12 will be offered a course which will relate art and our cultural heritage to present day life and surroundings. Robert Nelson, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula College art department will be the instructor and the classes are scheduled to start this Saturday, from 10 to 11 a.m., with the meeting place to be announced.

ANTIQUE COLLECTING TOPIC OF BPWC

The art of collecting antiques will be the feature at the regular monthly meeting of the Carmel Business and Professional Women's Club March 10. The meeting will be held at the Red Cross building at 7:30 p.m. and Mrs. Evans Barnard will tell how collections start, grow and branch into related fields.

Miss Marian Adams will be co-chairman and hostess. Interested guests may obtain more information by calling 624-3715.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Ransome Allison stand before the altar in the Chapel of the Blessed Sacrament of Carmel Mission where they were married in a late afternoon ceremony performed Saturday by the Reverend Juan Oronoz. The bride is the former Sandra Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Rogers of Borrego Springs.

Given in marriage by her father, Sandra wore a white worsted A-line dress and matching coat. An illusion veil fell from a cluster of white roses on her hair and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and bouvardia.

Mrs. Ann Lucido of Vancouver, Washington, was her sister's only attendant. A corsage of pink carnations was pinned to the collar of her pink worsted suit, with which she wore matching accessories.

Winston Sargant of Carmel served as Rodney's best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rogers chose a cranberry wool suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was of variegated carnations.

Mrs. Sue I. Ransome, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a fitted suit of blue-green brocade, complemented by a corsage of gardenias.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in the La Playa Hotel Garden Room where family and friends watched them cut a three-tiered wedding cake. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Don Scott of San Jose, Fred Woods of Borrego Springs, Miss Christine Druliner of Santa Monica, a childhood friend of the bride, and Mrs. William J. Flynn of San Francisco and Vacaville.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

At last the periodicals and the cataloging activities have been moved to Sunset. It was a terrible job and after we had packed all the materials in boxes and then unpacked all of it again and arranged the shelves at Sunset, we were completely bushed and ready to give up librarianship for a life of wealth and ease. Fortunately our recovery ratio is speedy and complete, so we are now ready to serve you old magazines from Sunset Room Two. If you can wait 24 hours, you may obtain them at the library. Just let us know which you prefer!

Howard Taubman is a drama critic on the New York Times. He has done a book on theatre which is entitled THE MAKING OF THE AMERICAN THEATRE. This is a great book for theatre buffs, for it covers American theatre from Little Eva to "Hello, Dolly." The pictures are fascinating. Speaking of theatre Taubman says "One might hope that in America its past was merely prologue and the best was yet to be."

Two new books on Thoreau are THE DAYS OF HENRY THOREAU by Walter Harding and THOREAU AS A WORLD TRAVELER by John Christie. Both men are college professors, and both are authorities on Thoreau. The first book is the life of Thoreau and a rather different portrait of him. He was what we call an armchair traveler and the second book shows him on such a journey, a literary traveler rather than a footloose one.

Ambrose and Olga Worrall are "sensitives." Even as children, each realized that he was different, and each sought to hide the knowledge. Now they are married and both use their psychic power in healing the sick. They do not take any patient who has not first seen a doctor. There are interesting case histories in the book which bear out the thought of the subtitle, which is A Personal Story of Spiritual Therapy.

A HISTORY OF THE SIERRA NEVADA is by Francis Farquar and is a University of California Press book. The author is a member of the Sierra Club, twice served as its president, edited its bulletin for 20 years, and has been intimately acquainted with the Sierra for over fifty years. He tells here of the early days, from the discovery of the range up to his own day. The illustrations are maps, drawings, and photographs. Some of the latter were taken by Ansel Adams and this in itself is enough to make anyone want to buy the book.

THE COMFORTABLE PEW is the title of a book by Pierre Berton in which he takes a long hard look at the Anglican Church in Canada and from there he comes to an indictment of the Protestant churches in America. This is a controversial book. Reading it may make you angry but it may also make you think.

There are loads more new books. Have a look at the lists posted on the bulletin board. They will give you the news.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The absolute equality of all men in the sight of God is the theme of this week's Lesson-Sermon on the subject "Man," to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday. Bible references include Paul's interpretation of this fundamental spiritual premise: "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus . . . There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus" (Galatians).

Parallel references from the denomination's textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include this statement: "Through spiritual sense you can discern the heart of divinity, and thus begin to comprehend in Science, the generic term man."

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

Before the old Custom House is complete with urban renewal sunken plaza and bandstand, let's tour into the past. Last week while gathering information about Fisherman's Wharf we lunched over local petrole sole with Barbara Burdick, comely custodian of today's Custom House.

At Lou's modern Italian-style restaurant on the pier where we were enjoying sustenance, our minds leaped back to Monterey's early history. Barbara updated us expertly by turning pressing present into picturesque past. Most apropos to "Party Plans" is the fact that the Mexican flag flew over Monterey for 25 years after the original Spanish possession. No wonder the aroma of frijoles, tortillas and tamales still supercedes modern international cuisine! So we will bring past flavor back into present favor through some old Monterey recipes.

"Picture the big room of the Customs House with great balls so well attended that guests overflowed the colonnade where oriental lanterns were strung up" is the way "A Guide to the Monterey Peninsula" describes these fascinating early times. The arrival of foreign ships was celebrated in this gay and sparkling fashion. It is amusing to quote that the Governor was asked if waltzing were really sinful? Resplendent in a beautiful coat adorned with 24 filigree buttons, the Governor replied, "The only sin I am conscious of is not being able to beg you for the honor of the dance, Senora Hartnell. Did I but know how to waltz, and were there music, and did I feel like waltzing, I should most certainly waltz!"

Waltzing or not, there still was plenty of dancing and conviviality to further romance. It was at the old Custom House that Lieutenant William Sherman was first quartered after the American flag was raised there. The dashing young officer was romantically attached to Senorita Maria Bonifacio, the belle of Monterey. Often they escaped the wandering eye of her duenna to row on the calm waters of the bay. Between dances in the pine bough decorated hall these two found much to talk over. But the call of duty took Sherman to the War between the States. Before leaving they planted a yellow rose bush together. Alas, Maria waited for his return but never saw him again. What was it Sherman said about war?

We ourselves recall dancing on roped off Alvarado street during modern fiesta times. There were tamale vendors and chili con carne was consumed con mucho gusto in the back room of California's First Theater. So let's leave history in the capable hands of the Monterey History and Art Association. We are famished, for manana we diet!

During the old bailes, Barbara Burdick suggests that the following refreshments were enjoyed by the gente fino at the old Custom House under Mexican regime.

CHOCOLATE DE MOLINILLO
(Serves 10)

7 cups milk; 4 cinnamon sticks, each 2 inches long; 9 squares (9 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate.

Heat milk and cinnamon in saucepan. Do not boil. Add chocolate and when melted, remove from heat. Beat vigorously with rotary beater or place a Mexican hand mill, called a molinillo, into saucepan. Twirl the molinillo's handle back and forth in palms of hands until chocolate is rich with foam. Serve in cups and stir with additional cinnamon sticks if desired. The chocolate was for children and senoritas (whole families attended these festive affairs). The senoras sipped wine punch and there was something stronger for the dons. Everyone enjoyed the following cookies.

MEXICAN SESAME-ANISE COOKIES
(Makes 6 dozen cookies)

1 tbsp. anise seeds; 2 tbsps. boiling water; 2/3 cup sugar; ¾ cup (1½ sticks) softened butter; 1/8 tsp. baking soda; 1 egg; 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour; 1 egg lightly beaten; toasted sesame seeds.

Combine anise seeds and boiling water and steep while mixing dough. Gradually blend sugar with butter and soda. Beat in egg. Strain anise seed liquid into the mixture. Discard seeds. Stir in flour, a little at a time. Mix well. Chill dough overnight or until stiff enough to handle. Shape dough into ½ inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheets 3 inches apart. Place a piece of waxed paper over cookies and flatten to 1/16 of an inch in thickness with bottom of glass. Remove waxed paper. Brush tops with lightly beaten egg. Sprinkle with toasted sesame seeds. Bake in pre-heated oven at 400 F. for about eight minutes, or until lightly browned.

Toasted Sesame Seeds: Scatter sesame seeds thinly in a shallow baking dish and bake 20 minutes in a 350 F. oven or until they are pale brown and full of flavor.

"Party Plans" has come up with some ideas from yesteryear which meet today's approval. We have tried them out on family, then friends. Served in comfort around a cheery blazing hearth these chill Ides of March, they are sure to hit the spot.

CHILI CON CARNE

3 lbs. lean beef; 4 onions, finely chopped; 1 tbsp. minced garlic; ½ cup olive oil; 4 qts. hot water; 3 large fresh tomatoes, chopped; 1 tbsp. powdered allspice; 2 tbsps. salt; 3 tbsps. paprika; 3 tbsps. chili powder; 4 cups red kidney beans, cooked or canned.

Cut beef into ½ inch cubes. Brown them with onion and garlic in oil. Add hot water and rest of ingredients excepting kidney beans. Simmer slowly for at least 4 hours without scorching Add cooked beans and simmer until heated through. This is even better when re-heated. Serve crisp tostadas in small wicker baskets, or corn chips will do. Great after a good brisk walk on the beach at sunset. Then back to one's casa for solid nourishment.

Another savory stew is this early California

PICADILLO

1 cup olive oil; 2 large onions, minced; 3 garlic cloves, minced; 4 tomatoes, diced small; 2 sweet green peppers, minced; 2 tbsps. capers; ½ cup seedless raisins; 4 cups leftover cold beef or lamb (fat and gristle removed and cut into medium cubes). Or saute 2 lbs. round ground beef and add.

Heat oil in heavy skillet. Add everything excepting raisins and meat. Cook until tender but not brown. Add the raisins which have been soaked in water and drained. Add meat and simmer for 30 minutes. Fluffy white rice goes well with both of these dishes. They are from "California Mission Recipes" adapted for modern usage by Bess A. Cleveland and published by Charles E. Tuttle Company. We will give you more of these practical and palatable platos from time to time. Adios until then!

Modern Nigeria Film For Fourth Graders

"Nigeria: What You'd See There Today," a sound-color filmstrip series by Leon Fletcher of Pebble Beach, was issued last week by Bailey Films Inc., of Hollywood.

The strips have been designed for use in the fourth grade, which, in California schools, makes a study of Africa, according to Mr. Fletcher.

Now coordinator of instructional services at Monterey Peninsula College, Mr. Fletcher worked in Nigeria in 1964-65 as a communications media specialist on a University of California at Los Angeles project to help the Nigerian government establish a modern teacher-training school in Lagos. He traveled through many parts of the country, working with leading educators to produce the photographs and script for the film series.

The filmstrip is available to schools on either tape or record.

Boosters Improve CHS Baseball Field

After hearing what the Booster's Club has done to improve the Carmel High School baseball field, Carmel Unified School District trustees last week voted the sum of $530 to provide materials for additional work to be done by the fathers and others. To be built are a storage shed and dugouts for the home and visiting teams. According to coach Monty Feekes, George De Amaral, a brick mason, has offered his time and the necessary tools to build the concrete block dugouts which would have cement floors and proper drainage systems. Any additional labor that Mr. De Amaral needs will be donated by members of the Booster Club.

The shed would house and provide security for hoses, shovels, rakes, bases, pitching machine and other field maintenance equipment. It could also hold blocking and tackling dummies for the freshman football team. Harold Lippstreu, industrial arts teacher, has created plans for the facility.

The two dugouts, said Mr. Feekes, would provide the atmosphere in which to develop team unity and spirit and prevent players from fraternizing with the spectators (prohibited by baseball rules).

During the past few weeks, the Booster's Club has surveyed and realigned the baseball field so that it is now the proper dimension. The fathers have also levelled the infield and outfield, supplying the soil and labor themselves. They are now constructing a much needed batting tunnel with their own materials. The donation of their time, efforts and supplies has been made in the interest of providing outstanding playing conditions for the athletes.

A one-man show of recent paintings by Sam Colburn, above, opens today in the Beardsley Room at the Carmel Art Association gallery and will continue through April 6. Watercolor portraits of children predominate in the current exhibit.

Though best known for his watercolors, the versatile painter works in oil, acrylic and latex luminal. Charcoal and pencil drawings are included in his mediums and he has designed ornamental but utilitarian tiles, taking part in the development of new techniques and glaze methods in their manufacture.

The artist, who describes himself as "mostly self-taught," made Carmel his home before World War II. After college, he studied at Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles, later in adult education life drawing classes. In addition to exhibits on the West Coast, his work has been shown in the 20th Century Gallery West in New York City and the Aschinger Gallery in Aspen, Colorado. His paintings have received first-prize and honorable mention at Monterey County Fair annuals.

Mr. Colburn has illustrated articles for magazines and executed murals, many of which may be seen locally, for numerous business establishments. An exhibit of his work is currently on view at the San Francisco Art Center.

Also on display at the Carmel Art Gallery this month is a new show by artist members of the association.

Tomorrow through March 31, paintings by Fritz Faiss will be shown at the American Federation of Arts gallery. Professor Faiss, a native of Germany, was trained at the Bauhaus with Wassily Kandinsky and Paul Klee and attended the Academy of Fine Arts in Stuttgart where he later taught. Labeled by the Nazis as a "decadent painter," in 1937, he managed to come to the United States in 1951 and has been teaching in Southern California since then. He has developed a method of encaustic painting, a revival of the Punic wax medium of ancient Egyptian, Greek and Roman periods. The artist gave a workshop for the AFA last summer and has held seminars at Big Sur Hot Springs.

Professor Faiss will hold a workshop here again in April.

A class to help high school juniors and seniors to understand modern art through discussions with colorslides will be sponsored by the American Federation of Arts beginning March 10. The class will be under the direction of Betty Washburn, teacher of art and art appreciation at Santa Catalina School for Girls.

The sessions will be held each Thursday at 4 p.m. for ten weeks. Since the class will be limited, those interested are advised to make reservations through AFA headquarters (624-2918).

AFA members are urged to make their reservations early for the international dinner to be held at the House of Four Winds in Monterey next Thursday. The event will feature Russian cuisine with recipes furnished by the Defense Language Institute and Russian entertainment.

A comprehensive showing of the works of Rollo Peters of Monterey will be featured this month at the Santa Barbara Museum of Art. The exhibit, which opened February 21 and will continue through March 24, includes Mr. Peters' theatrical settings and costume designs spanning 40 years of his contributions to the American theatre. Also included in the exhibit of this well known Peninsula artist and theatrical luminary are his paintings and drawings.

Kites Will Soar Again March 26 In Carmel's 36th Annual Festival

Another of Carmel's traditions will continue this year with the 36th annual Kite Festival on March 26 (PLEASE don't let it rain!) at Carmel Middle School. The yearly event, first staged by the Reverend Willis G. White 35 years ago March 21, is now co-sponsored by the Carmel schools recreation department and the Lions Club, whose members donate the prizes.

Fathers, mothers, take note — each kite must be made by the entrant. Other general regulations, the same as in 1931, are that an entrant's kite must actually fly and cannot be commercially made. Each kite may be entered in one age group only.

There will be four prize categories. For eight years and under, 200 foot flying, best workmanship and prettiest. For ages nine-12, 13-15 and "adults" over 15, the prizes are for highest flying kite, first; best workmanship, second; prettiest, third.

In addition, the Willis White prize again will be awarded for the best international design and the Ernest Calley prize for the champion kite.

Last year, after two postponements because of inclement weather, about 300 enthusiastic bystanders watched 137 entries compete in the local contest.

Kevin Wallace, now a staff member of The New Yorker magazine, was first-prize winner in the original kite festive.

GIRL SCOUTS HONOR MRS. WILL HATTON

Mrs. Will Hatton was the special honoree at the annual meeting of the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council on February 24 in Salinas.

In appreciation for the more than 40 years of personal support that Mrs. Hatton has given to Girl Scouting in the community, she was presented with a Girl Scout statuette by Stoddard P. Johnston, public relations chairman. A junior, cadette and senior Girl Scout paid tribute by presenting her with a sheaf of roses, one for each year that she has been a member of the Girl Scout movement. Mrs. Hatton is currently serving as a member of the council's board of directors and lends land, near her home in Calera Canyon, for the use of a council-operated day camp.

Retiring board member, Mrs. James Wilson, was given a gold trefoil charm in appreciation of her contribution to the formation of the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council which serves more than 7,200 girls in Monterey, San Benito and Santa Cruz counties.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

LOS PADRES TRAIL GUIDE

The Los Padres National Forest and the Ventana Wild Area which comprise a tremendous area of the Santa Lucia Mountains that border the Monterey Peninula and run southward along the Sur Coast, abound with trails, campsites, heliports, look-out stations, streams, peaks, forests, rushing streams and meadows. They are traversed by many people throughout all seasons of the year.

Good United States Forest Service, U.S. Geological Survey and other maps are available and have long been used by those who enjoy and appreciate these areas, such as groups of Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, members of various hiking and outdoor clubs. The need for a more accurate guide, giving specific trail distances, elevations, camp sites, water locations, etc., has become increasingly evident as more and more people go into these areas.

The outing section of the Ventana chapter of the Sierra Club (Ventana comprises more than 600 members within Monterey County) is undertaking a project of preparing a trail guide to this northern section of the Los Padres National Forest. The guide, when completed, will be available to club members and all others interested in exploring and using the extraordinary back country of the Carmel-Big Sur region.

The idea for such a compilation of material came from three members of the club, Ward Allison and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins, a resident of Big Sur and Carmel is chairman of the outing section. Actual field work was begun late last year and the initial project was that of checking and measuring the Pine Ridge and Mt. Manuel trails out of Big Sur. Various measuring wheels and devices were used. The club has recently purchased a measuring wheel, compact and easy to be used by any member, a wheel which will provide accurate measurements of the main trails to one-tenth of a mile. Mile markers have already been placed on the Pine Ridge trail as far as Barlow Flats and for a total of six miles on the Mt. Manuel trail.

While work is progressing with serious joy by members of the outing committee, the mountaineering section of the club has a separate project of establishing a cross-country route from Mt. Manuel to the Ventana Double Cone.

Information to be contained within the guide is still in the very early stages and no date as yet been indicated for its release.

Responsibility for gathering information within the various areas of the forest has been assigned as follows. The Carmel River watershed to Dave Hagemeyer; the Little Sur River watershed to Vince Torres, the Big Sur watershed to Ward Allison; the coast from Big Sur south to the Nacimiento summit to Jerry Lebeck; the coast from Nacimiento summit south to the Monterey County line, to "Mac" McCracken and the Arroyo Seco watershed to Roy Anderson of Salinas and Sam Hopkins.

Absurdity Cloaks Horror In New White Oaks Theatre Production

BY DOROTHY REED

White Oaks Theatre's current offering, Arthur Kopit's "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' so Sad," has a unique effect on the theatre-goer. He comes away in favor of sin and against mother.

The mother in the play is a man-eating female whose drive for complete possession of others has destroyed her husband and made a stammering imbecile of her son. She still has the "Poor Dad" of the title, stuffed; he goes along in a big black coffin when she travels, and falls out of the closet at an awkward moment in his son's romance.

The underlying horror of the story is cloaked by absurdity at the surface, so that the impact is highly comic, with shivers underneath. The author displays complete cynicism toward women, for the girl he has created to solace the son is a ruthless little replica of the mother.

Madame Rosepettle, as the lady is called, is brilliantly acted by Tracy Carr whose natural appeal gives credence to the unnatural role. Miss Carr has been doing character parts lately that have obscured her very real beauty; here it is refreshingly played up. She is changeable as quicksilver, ridiculous and frightening, unreal and deadly. Her husband had three Christian names, and she calls her son indiscriminately by all of them, denying him even the identity of a name of his own. Her entourage is cannibalistic; she carries with her a cat-eating fish and a pair of insect-eating plants, with obvious symbolism. She appears at the hotel where the action takes place (her life is a parade of such hotels) in mourning, accompanied by the coffin; she orders her bedroom draped in black. Her subsequent costumes are glamorous or giddy as she pursues her hobbies —she flirts with the owners of very large yachts, and she patrols the beach at night to kick sand at pairs of lovers.

Her son in the meantime remains locked in his room, his only contact with life what he can see through a home-made telescope. His companions are collections of stamps, coins, and books, and he dutifully goes through motions of delight when his mother tells him how delighted he is with these. Two traumatic events shake him out of his innocence—he meets a girl, and he overhears a conversation between his mother and her admirer relating to the strange circumstances of her marriage and his origin. Ron Stark makes the boy's grief, his desire, his terror come alive in a tremendously skilled portrayal of a basically unbelievable party.

As Rosalie, the man-eater junior grade who tries to wrest the boy from his mother in order to swallow him herself, Linda Boblitt is satisfyingly single-minded, self-absorbed and stubborn. Ron Mitchell plays Commodore Roseabove, the elderly yachtsman who approaches Madame Rosepettle with ardor, only to flee in panic as he comes to know her better. Mitchell and Dave Wynne take the part of bellboys. Michael S. Riordan doubles as the put-upon head bellboy and the lifeless Dad.

Gale Peterson serves as both director and designer of the production, giving it a high polish of technical excellence, and keeping a balance between the air of comedy and the far-out pathos. Sound, lighting and costuming, by George Gray, Don Mulderick and Corliss Nickerson are handled with skill and taste.

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad" may not be for everyone (and as a matter of fact it ought to be labeled "Adults Only") but it's a lively piece, no doubt about that. It will play Fridays and Saturdays in the theater in Carmel Valley until April 2.

San Lorenzo Skins Carmel Padres

By Chris Laiolo, Rusty Vandervort and Mark Czirban

The invading San Lorenzo Cougars beat the Carmel High Padres 71-62 February 21, in MTAL play.

The Carmel junior varisity came from behind in the fourth quarter to beat San Lorenzo 47-43. Bill Cox took high point honors for the game with 17, while Wolf had 15 for the Cougars.

The lightweights dropped their last game of the season 50-33, but showed a good ability to come back in the third quarter by holding San Lorenzo to three points while scoring 10 themselves. Chris Laiolo grabbed high point honors with 14 tallies, while Burt got 13 for the Cougarettes.

In the varsity game, it was close all the way to the last quarter when the Cougars broke it open. Tony Laiolo held the Padres up in the first quarter by racking up 10 points but it ended at 16-14 for San Lorenzo.

The second quarter saw both teams scoring the same number of points as in the first quarter and the half ended at 32-28.

The Padres came back, however, in the third quarter to take over the lead, 45-44, but then dropped back down to lose 71-62. Laiolo had 21 points and Bob Fonseca 20, but the high point honors went to Neal of San Lorenzo for his 25 tallies. San Lorenzo's game was also benefitted by their 17 out of 18 free-throws.

The Carmel Invitational Tournament will be held March 3-5 at the Carmel High gym. The Padres will meet Gustine at 9:00 p.m. on the first night.

Community Service Stressed During Girl Scout Week

New kinds of promissory notes are in circulation this week—promises of service to the community. Issued in the name of various Girl Scout troops of the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council, each note indicates the intention of the troop's members to provide a specific service.

This local action is part of a nationwide promise of service that is being made by more than three million Girl Scouts across the country in honor of Girl Scout Week (March 6-12) and the 54th birthday of Girl Scouting in the U.S.A. Theme of the celebration is "Girl Scouting—A Promise in Action."

In the Monterey Bay Girl Scout Council more than 7,200 girls are participating in some way in giving service within their communities. For the Brownie Girl Scout, age seven or eight, service in the community may mean giving extra help at home or to an immediate neighbor.

"Our junior, cadette and senior Girl Scouts will have more far reaching service projects," explained Mrs. Fank Orr, council president. "Some of these projects will involve service to other groups in the community and some concern personal attitudes or troop self-improvement. All truly represent 'A Promise in Action' and will be fulfilled during the troop year ending next September 1."

'The Rainmaker' Opens Tomorrow At Circle Theatre

"The Rainmaker," a romantic comedy by N. Richard Nash, will open on tomorrow evening at the Circle Theatre for a run of six weekends.

"The Rainmaker" was one of the most popular of Broadway hits during the 1950's, and was made into a memorable color film starring Katharine Hepburn and Burt Lancaster. In the '60's it became the basis for a musical comedy starring Inga Swenson, entitled "110 in the Shade." A mixture of rough western action and warm human understanding, it has broad appeal for all audiences.

Under the direction of Norman McPhee, the Community Theatre production features several actors familiar to Peninsula theatre-goers. The title role has been assigned to Sam Matar, who has previously played at the Circle in "Caesar and Cleopatra" and "Critic's Choice" and has directed and acted in musical and variety productions at other theatres. In the role of Lizzie Curry, the plain farm girl to whom the rainmaker brings a hope of love, Harriett Bird makes her first Circle appearance since playing the coloratura milkmaid in "Patience." Miss Bird is well known as a singer and competed in this year's Metropolitan Opera auditions.

Television actor John Hicks, a resident of Carmel who first appeared locally in "The Firebugs" last autumn, is cast as Lizzie's understanding father, H. C. Curry, owner of a cattle ranch besieged by drought. His sons, Noah and Jim, will be played by Ray Cadena, a veteran of several leading roles at the Studio Theatre, and Duane Jones, a newcomer from Monterey Peninsula College.

Peter Kuehn, the rising young actor who played Willi in "The Firebugs" and Antipholus of Ephesus in "The Comedy of Errors," is cast as File, the taciturn deputy admired by Lizzie. Paul Czirban plays his boss, the sheriff.

Carol McPhee has designed the ranch-house setting for "The Rainmaker." Costumes are by Jean Cahill and sound and lighting by Charles Richmond.

Curtain time is 8:30 on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

MRA's 'Sing Out '66' Plays At Sunset Tonight, Tomorrow

"Sing Out '66," the Moral Re-Armament musical which has played to enthusiastic audiences in this country and overseas, will be presented at Sunset Center auditorium tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p.m. Mayors of Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Seaside and Del Rey Oaks joined in welcoming the MRA show's cast and crew to the Monterey Peninsula Tuesday. Before the reception at Colton Hall in Monterey, the group appeared at a Carmel High School assembly to stage portions of the production

In addition to appearances at school assemblies in the area, the full variety show has been presented at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School and Fort Ord. "Sing Out '66" is described as highly polished and professionally conceived, full of rousing numbers which deliver the MRA message. This is, "essentially, that there is more to American youth than is to be found in the news stories about beatniks and about demonstrations against the government and universities." According to director Richard Wailes, "We are out to rouse the 100 million Americans of our generation to take the fullest, most responsible role in World Affairs . . ." Dedicated to patriotism, MRA members strive to live up to four basic ideals, honesty, purity, unselfishness and love. Reviews of the musical indicate that MRA members are putting across their convictions most effectively through good entertainment.

Supervisor Tom Hudson, whose son was in the cast before joining the U.S. Marines, has been credited with bringing "Sing Out '66" to the Peninsula. Other sponsors include the four city mayors; also Supervisor Andy Anderson, Larry Cunningham, Edgar Gallwey and Gordon Smith.

Tickets, $2.50 for adults and $1 for students, will be available at the box office; reservations can be made by phoning 624-9892.

Nothing Interesting Under $40,000
In the Country Club? Nonsense!

$31,000—SPINNING WHEEL CHARM

In upper Pebble Beach, a delightful and interesting little house sort of angled into its woodsy setting on a corner lot. "Charming" is the most accurate word we can think of for the pleasant feeling in the large living room (fireplace, of course) two pretty bedrooms and bath in one wing and what the owner calls her "bonus room"" and bath in another part of the house, used for hobbies and guests. Cute kitchen, too, and did you note the price?

$37,500—AN ELEGANT LITTLE HOUSE with all the amenities as well as the necessities, and easy cart distance from the Club. Beautiful carpeting throughout, except where the floors are beautiful vinyl patterns in kitchen and baths. Fireplace wall is used brick, floor to ceiling. The kitchen is a real honey and has double oven, built in stove, dishwasher, disposal and a Bar-B-Q. Natural, easy care landscaping. Immaculate, vacant, and you can move right in.

$37,500—FLEXIBILITY THE KEYNOTE in the floorplan, perfection the word for the details in a home that's at once comfortable and dignified. The living room and dining room have window walls to beautifully developed patio area. Kitchen has natural cabinets. 3 bedrooms (one makes a great study), and there isn't a thing this house needs done to it, unless you'd like to add a shower to the half bath off the study. Easy to finance, too.

$35,000—INDOOR/OUTDOOR LIVING

A third of an acre landscaped to perfection (and deer-fenced to keep it that way). Striking fireplace wall in the living room features marble hearth, stone fireplace with heatilator, bookshelves, and a built-in mirror. Three bedrooms, one with patio entrance, and two baths. Hardwood floors, central heat, double garage, and taxes of only $389.

Override Tax Failure Means Drastic Cuts In CUSD School Program

the decreased operation cost is partially offset by the increased transportation expense. There is a major saving of one teacher discussed under the next item. The total cut would be $1,000.

7. A general reduction of staff: Operate with eight fewer teachers next year. This reasoning is based on a preliminary study of the enrollment situation, certainly an inadequate one as compared with what will be done at the close of the school year. Few, if any, elementary classes are likely to exceed thirty pupils next year under this plan. The eight reductions in staff would probably be made at the following schools, Palo Colorado, one; Captain Cooper, one; Carmelo, two; Woods, one; Tularcitos, one; High School, two. The total saving would be $64,000.

8. Reduce pupil supplies, textbooks, and library books: A blanket reduction in this area of $20,000 will be required to balance the budget. The total cut would be $20,000.

In summary this would mean that there would be a saving of approximately $130,800 in the tentative budget. The exact number of the cuts and the areas to be cut will be re-examined and a final decision will be made by the board of education when the various budgets are approved in July and August, 1966.

ment of an oil refinery at Moss Landing received attention from the commission last week. In view of the natural beauty and park values in Monterey and adjacent counties, members agreed to inform themselves further in the matter and to consider, at their next meeting, opposing the granting of a permit for Humble Oil Company to construct a refinery at Moss Landing.

Dr. Talcott Bates of Rancho Aguajito conducted the commissioners on a tour of the proposed Monterey Pines Park in the Jacks Peak area. According to Mrs. Owings, the members were impressed by the superb quality of the section but pointed out that current land values preclude purchase of the total acreage. Instead, Mrs. Owings stated, the commission might recommend a smaller park along the top of Jacks Peak.

The state body also inspected the Molera property, including Partington beach, which has been accepted for purchase to enlarge the adjacent Big Sur State Park.

The park commission informally approved plans for a landscaped plaza between the Custom House and Pacific Building in Monterey. Prepared by landscape architect Lawrence Halprin of San Francisco, the design will be coordinated with that of the city's urban renewal program. The project is to be developed above the planned urban renewal traffic tunnel on which construction is scheduled to start in early summer providing funds are available from the federal government.

Commissioner Margaret Owings of Big Sur questioned Mr. Halprin about the present planting of the existing triangular plaza, remarking that considerable criticism has been expressed against it. The landscape architect said that his proposed plans would be substitued for this after completion of the tunnel. As much as possible, trees will be saved for replanting

Use Of Tax Boost Funds

mentary texts, library books, and new equipment, the board will plan $35,000 a year for these accounts.

The district has not been able to meet the problem of students with special needs. These include the retarded, the educationally handicapped, the underachievers and, generally, those youngsters whose presence in a regular class retards the class. By the end of the five-year period it is expected that three of these classes may be operating at an annual net cost of $21,000.

Forced to sacrifice maintenance of building and grounds in favor of instruction, the board plans to attack the accumulated problems relating thereto through an annual expenditure of approximately $20,000. Exclusive of needs such as classroom furniture refinishing and repair, replacement of softwood shelving and cabinets and deteriorating drapes, and projects to place school grounds in good condition, estimated costs of larger delayed maintenance problems of the schools include $49,500 for the high school; $4,850 for River; $5,000 for Woods; $1,500 for Carmelo; $1,500 for Captain Cooper; and $3,500 for Tularcitos. These amounts are based on detailed estimates for items contained in the summary.

Summarized, this means the board would use the 70-cent override funds approximately as follows:

To maintain existing program, 35 cents.

Additional teachers and teachers salaries, 22 cents.

In service training, 5 cents.

Books and textbooks, 4 cents.

Special programs and maintenance, 4 cents.

At its regular meeting last week, the board formally affirmed its intent to use the funds as estimated on the assumption that the full 70 cents would be levied each year for the next five years.

As an example of the cost to the taxpayer of the override tax, property appraised at $5,000 ($22,000-plus, actual value) would be taxed an additional $3.00 per month; $7,000 appraised value would be slightly over $4.00 per month.
